Editor News:

Mention has been made in your columns that I have been teaching my second term at Beam's Academy, Rutherford county, N. C.

Our term closed last week, and we had an entertainment on the night of March 11, 1911. The weather was ideal, the audience was large and well behaved; and joy was inexpressible.

The exercises began at 7:30 p. m., and consisted of class songs, "Bonnie Blue Flag, The Old Kentucky Home, Old Lang Syne, Suawnee Ribber, and Home, Sweet Home," as well as a good deal of instrumental music.

Several recitations were well rendered, and we also had dialogues, "Striking the Blow, Pumpkin Ridge, Buck Brought to Time, Arkansas Traveler, The Doctor Shop, and Axin Her Father," also these tableau scenes with colored lights.

Allow me to remark, incidentally, that the "Old Kentucky Home" is a great favorite in North Carolina. In catering to most audiences in the country, we find that simple, or sentimental songs make a very strong appeal. It is related that when Jenny Lind, the glorious Swedish Nightingale, appeared in New York, she sang for the upper ten all the up-to-date music.

A great deal of perfunctory applause went up, and much of it from people who could not have distinguished between Yankee Doodle and Old Hundred. An old man from the obscure walks of life, requested that she sing the masterpiece of John Howard Payne. In her rich contralto voice she granted his request, and the whole audience felt the spirit of the sad, sweet melody, composed by a wanderer.

During the Civil War when the blue and the gray were camped on either side of Rappahanock, the bands of either army went out on one Sabbath afternoon to rehearse. The Federals played Yankee Doodle, and the Confederates awoke the nimble notes of Dixie. The Union band played the stately cadences of the Star Spangled Banner, and the "Johnnies" retorted with Bonnie Blue Flag. Finally, one band played Home, Sweet Home, and the other fell into the same strain, instead of the feeling of defiance the brave soldiers felt a spirit of fraternity, and each side felt the sentiment of this immortal favorite, and tears coursed down the faces of the bravest of the brave.

Time is a great leveller and a great healer of wounds. As all your readers know, North Carolina was one of the Confederate states, and thirty years ago you would have been insulted had you played "Marching Through Georgia, Yankee Doodle, or Star Spangled Banner." Now our bands play those pieces at school entertainments; and the "Dixie" girls like to sing them, and promptly march to the music of "Marching Through Georgia and Yankee Doodle."

It would do me good to teach one more school in The Old Kentucky Home. For thirty-two years I have been continuously on the firing line, and I love the work. Here, I have already begun to teach children of my first pupils. This makes two terms at Beam's Academy for me, and several children of my former pupils are in my room, and more were in the room of my assistant.

Bless your life, a true son of Kentucky loves his native land as the sweet singer of captive Israel preferred Jerusalem above his chief joy. In Georgia, Virginia, South Carolina, the sunny fields of Tennessee, and the old North State, I have felt the tears spring to my eyes as I heard violin, piano, military bands, and orchestras render the "Old Kentucky Home, or Auld Lang Syne."

At Columbus, Ga., while we made that place headquarters, I witnessed "East Lynne," as performed by troupe of Pearl Melville. In the saddest part of that old play, the orchestra rendered Auld Lang Syne. Joe Matthews, one of my associates, turned and looked at me. After the play was over he said: "I knew that would bring you, White, for you are always humming that tune."

In regard to our closing exercises, we had a stirring talk on "Education," by M. L. Martin, Esq., who went from teaching to the legal profession.

A Fierce Night Alarm

is the hoarse, startling cough of a child suddenly attacked by croup. Often it aroused Lewis Chamblin, of Manchester, O., [R. R. No 2] for their four children were greatly subject to croup. "Sometimes in severe attacks," he wrote "we were afraid they would die, but since we proved what a certain remedy Dr. King's New Discovery is, we have no fear. We rely on it for croup and for coughs, colds or any throat or lung trouble." So do thousands of others. So may you. Asthma, Hay Fever, La Grippe, Whooping Cough, Hemorrhages fly before it, 50c and $1 Trial bottle free. Sold by the Paull Drug Co.

In 1902 the mileage of wires used for telephones was four times as great as that of telegraph wires, but five years later it was eight times as great.

Obituary.

The subject of this sketch, sister Clara, the second wife of Frances McElroy. She was born Dec., 26, 1839, was married to Frances McElroy June 24, 1879, and died at Esto, Ky., in her home, February 23rd, 1911.

Sister McElroy was converted and joined the United Baptist at White Oak, Adair county about fifty years ago. Later on with her husband moved their membership to Liberty church, Russell county, in this she lived a consistent member and was faithful until death called her home.

Sister McElroy was one of God's good women. She done what she could; Mark 14:8. Read for yourself. She was good to every one, but especially to the poor, always ready to lend a helping hand in all times of need.

Her work was well done. She was aware that her time was up, and got her own clothing and had them made to order. She will be greatly missed by all. She leaves only one brother, Arch Bailey and a number of step grandchildren and many friends. Sister McElroy is not dead but sleepeth; she has only gone on before us brothers and sisters. Friends, come on and we will see her again, in that land where there will be no death and no more good byes.

The funeral services were conducted by Rev. Charles Dean, after which the remains were laid to rest by the side of her husband to await the resurrection when the dead in Christ will rise. Now friends, let us all see live that we will be in the first Resurrection.

Death of a Little Girl.

Last Tuesday night about half past 12 o'clock the death angel visited the home of Mr. and Mrs. Will McMahan, claiming their oldest daughter, Mary. We were very much shocked when hearing of her sudden death, for she was sick only a few days.

Weep not dear parents for Mary is not dead but only a sleep in Jesus, awaiting your coming to that beautiful home where there will be no more sickness nor death.

We know it was hard to part with her but, she is only awaiting for you at the pearly white gate where there will be no more sad partings and good byes. Mary was a kind loving little girl, loved by all who knew her. She leaves father, mother one little sister, three half brothers and several relatives and friends to mourn her loss.

The deceased was 12 years old, born and reared at her late home near Fry, Green county. Her remains were laid to rest in the family burying ground at Fry.

Aunt Concie.
